

Special Recognition Awards

July 1, 2022 – June 30, 2023

All nominations will be reviewed by the Working for a Healthier TN team and evaluated based on (1) nominations submitted by Wellness Councils and (2) workplace wellness activities completed during the fiscal year.

	Breakthrough Wellness Council This Wellness Council has shown improvement in their efforts over the last fiscal year to organize and promote wellness activities that meet the needs of their employees. These efforts may include strengthening their agency’s Wellness Council, improving Wellness Council communications and/or trying different strategies to engage and inspire their workforce.
	Communicator of the Year Jim Rohn says, “If you just communicate, you can get by. But if you communicate skillfully, you can work miracles.” The Communicator of the Year award recognizes a Wellness Council that excels at reaching all their employees and keeping them in-the-know about workplace wellness events, activities and resources.
	Engagement Award The Engagement award recognizes the Wellness Council that “moves the masses” – providing their employees with activities they want to join so they keep coming back for more.
	Innovator Award This Wellness Council goes beyond WFHTN’s Quarterly Activity Lists and comes up with out-of-the-box ideas to engage co-workers in health and wellness activities.
	Thinking Outside the Desktop Award This Wellness Council is intentional about including and engaging employees you won’t often find working at a traditional desk.
	WFHTN All-Star This is a Wellness Council member who always has a positive attitude and is constantly encouraging their co-workers to engage in health and wellness activities to live healthier lives.
